The Heavenly Gate Soaring Dragon Spiritual event originated as a charitable event, primarily for lighting up spiritual lamps to bless devotees. Initially focused on the Seven-Star Lamp, it later expanded to the Nine-Star Lamp, incorporating various lamp rituals to help the public dispel disasters and difficulties. This assembly is typically held on the birthdays of deities, lasting for seven days and seven nights, and is presided over by a Taoist master. The event also features monks chanting for blessings, a Animal Liberation Ceremony, flower water cleansing, and the ritual of crossing the Seven-Star Charcoal Pots. During the last event during CNY2024, over three thousand lamps were lit, with devotees from more than nine countries participating.

Nine Star Bagua Spiritual Lamp

The Nine-Star Bagua Lamp integrates the wisdom of ancient Chinese astronomy, geography, and Taoist culture. This lamp ritual combines the Qian-Kun Bagua and the Nine Stars of the Big Dipper, symbolizing balance and harmony between heaven and earth, and conveying auspiciousness and protection. The fusion of the Bagua and the Nine Stars reflects ancient China's profound understanding of nature, celestial movements, and incorporates the essence of literature, martial arts, music, and other cultural elements.

Nine Stars

The Nine Stars of the Big Dipper, in traditional Chinese astrology and Taoist belief, each have specific attributes and areas they govern.

Eight Trigrams:

The Eight Trigrams represent eight natural phenomena or dynamics: Heaven, Earth, Water, Fire, Thunder, Wind, Mountain, and Lake. These phenomena, known as the "First Eight Symbols," reflect the ancient people's most direct observations of the natural world. Each trigram embodies profound philosophical meanings, symbolizing various forces and changes in the universe.
